Each issue also contained a miniature game and some issues included character stats for the role-playing game. Warhawks. Warhawks was a four issue comic/module series that took the Top Secret/S.I. game to a time traveling setting where characters derive powers from tattoos. The four issues featured character stats and served as a campaign book in addition to the comic book adventures.

Along with Dungeons & Dragons and Traveller, another great love of my early RPG career was TSR's Top Secret. First released in 1980, it was written by Merle M. Rasmussen, a writer of somewhat mysterious pedigree. That is, he appears to have debuted on the RPG scene as the creator of Top Secret and, with the exception of a couple of D&D modules in the mid to late 80s, to have done little else in ...

Top Secret, SI was an old espionage role-playing game from TSR that came out in 1987. It was the newer version of an even older spy role playing game called Top Secret that had come out in 1980. Though I never really got into role-playing games, I really liked a lot of the concepts from the game and I thought that some of the different names that were used were really cool.
